Legal Research

Agency Decisions and Orders

This lesson will introduce you to the process of researching federal agency decisions. You should expect to encounter: overview of agency regulatory powers; types of agency decisions; how to find them; how to update them; and their precedential value.

In this lesson, it will be assumed that you are comfortable with the concepts involved in researching judicial court opinions and agency regulations.

Evaluating Web Sites

This lesson will provide the student with the tools to effectively judge the content of web pages. Included in the exercise are four criteria for evaluation: authority, accuracy, comprehensiveness and currency. Each of these concepts is defined through the use of descriptive text followed by screen images of actual law-related web sites to illustrate the concepts.

LessonText for Evaluating Web Sites

Version 03/01/2019

LessonText is a special faculty view of a CALI Lesson in its entirety on a single webpage.

Instead of walking through a lesson page-by-page like a student, LessonText puts every question, answer, piece of feedback, and even picture in one place so faculty can thoroughly review a lesson. It makes printing a lesson in its entirety possible with your browser's print option, and it allows for simple search for keywords using your computer's regular search function.

To follow the flow and branching of the questions more easily, try Mapper. If you want to assign this lesson, you can track your students' usage by creating a unique URL using LessonLink. To see the editorial history (including minor edits) of the lesson, click editorial and revision notes. You can also review the page/type index, referenced websites and index of images.

Question

As we've seen, commercial sites can look very different from government web pages even though they are covering the same type of material. What are some benefits you might find at a commercial site that you won't find at a government site?

Choices

<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Yes	<input type="checkbox"/> No	A	A commercial site may offer the ability to access additional resources for a subscription fee.
<input type="checkbox"/> Yes	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> No	B	A commercial site is more objective than a government one.
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Yes	<input type="checkbox"/> No	C	A commercial site may provide legal analysis and explanation of the government's actions.

Response

A commercial site may offer the ability to access additional resources for a subscription fee.

Yes	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Correct. The Real Corporate Lawyer site offers a monthly e-zine that covers not only what happened at the SEC but also other organizations that promulgate rules and regulations affecting securities practice. A government site doesn't usually have the time and staff to do so. You have to actually visit the site to see what's new. Also, they will only include information that they actually produce. They may have links to other government sites that might be of interest but they won't provide or discuss the other agency's material.
No	<input type="checkbox"/>	Incorrect. Commercial sites, such as The Real Corporate Lawyer, have the staff and time to offer daily, weekly, or monthly newsletters that are freely sent via email.

Warranties: Discussions in Contracts
March 8th, 2018 · Comments Off on Warranties: Discussions in Contracts · All Posts, Contracts, Lawdibles Audio

The topic of this podcast by Professor Scott J. Burnham is a basic overview of when warranties are given for the sales of goods under Article 2 of the UCC. An additional podcast will discuss how warranties can be disclaimed or limited. The primary issue in warranty law is what is the level of quality that a buyer can expect in a contract for goods. This podcast will introduce you to express warranties (§ 2-313), implied warranties (§ 2-312), warranty of merchantability (§ 2-314), and implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose (§ 2-315). At the conclusion of this podcast you should be able to (1) identify the various warranties that are given by the Code in transactions involving the sale of goods; and (2) explain the remedy the buyer is entitled to when there is a breach of warranty.

A transcript of this podcast is here.
